September 2023 & January 2024 Jobs

If you want a teaching job for September it is not too late to register. We'll get you up to speed and interviewing for great opportunities very quickly. Maybe you are not ready to go right now, but you want to start planning for a January 2024 teaching job or at least speak to someone about your options and eligibility.

The good news is that we love chatting to teachers and helping them create a plan and make it happen.

Shannon's journey to the UK

Shannon headed to the UK in the months before covid struck and still managed to achieve his travel and professional teaching goals. Shannon was so passionate about sharing his experience that he created several videos that outline his experiences.

We love to be able to share the direct experiences of the teachers we support. If you are considering living and working in the UK, we'd love to help you too.

We love hearing from teachers we have previously helped or spoken to about teaching in the UK.

We pride ourselves on offering an honest and transparent service that is teacher-centred. We are teachers ourselves and have lived and worked in the UK and have decades of experience supporting international teachers into day to day, contract and permanent teaching jobs across the UK.

We'll look after you or someone you know who is ready to live and teach in the UK.
