Interview now for January 2026 jobs

We are currently supporting teachers from Australia, New Zealand and Canada (as well as other parts of the world if they have UK working rights) to secure supply work and contract or permanent positions in schools in London and across England and into Wales.

There is still time for you to interview and gain a job and become compliant to teach in England for the start of the Spring term in early January 2026.

What to expect teaching in the UK

The UK, with its shared language, established education system, and relatively straightforward visa process, has long been a popular destination. However, the experience of teaching in the UK presents unique challenges and rewards.

As an international teacher who has made the move, I want to share insights into what it's like, what to expect, and how to make the most of the opportunity.

The Interview Process

We prepare our teachers for what to expect and how to succeed when interviewing for UK teaching jobs.

The interview process is completed using platforms like Teams and Zoom and are usually about 30 minutes in length. We are experts in supporting teachers to stand out in this format and understand what British Headteachers will ask and want to know about your skills and experience.

Most schools will want to conduct 1 or 2 interviews and before making an offer. There are unspoken rules regarding dress and preparation that we can fill you in on!
