Is London the best place in the UK for you to live and teach?

Are you considering living and working in London, but not sure if it is the right place for you?

Teaching in London is a great option for Aussie, NZ and Canadian teachers who want to be in the thick of it all in one of the most exciting cities in the world.

Read our blog on whether London is your jam, and if it isn't, we also service schools in areas all over England, like Manchester, Brighton, Leeds and Birmingham.

Surviving and Thriving

Every year, Teach in support hundreds of Aussie, New Zealand and Canadian teachers into permanent, fixed-term and supply work in schools across England and Wales.

We make sure we support our new graduates with 1:1 attention from their local and UK Consultants and we also make sure early career teachers have a UK Mentor in their school.

Get to know some of our UK Schools

We love visiting and speaking to our partner schools up and down England, to find out why they love supporting our overseas teachers so they feel part of their school community. Watch this video and meet some of our partner schools.

We work with schools that are passionate about their students, their staff and the wider-school community and schools that understand the needs of international teachers coming to live and work in the UK.
